MARATHON RACER

Patent Applied For

PROPELLED BY SWINGING MOVEMENT OF THE BODY LIKE GLIDING ON SKATES

If you were ever a boy or girl you know what this means. Stand up and coast down hill or ride on level surface with one foot doing the propelling—that's the way most youngsters use express wagons, the Marathon Racer is the development of that idea. The Marathon Racer takes the place of roller skates and is safer. The youngster learns to propel it by swinging the body just like gliding on skates. There is nothing cheap about the Marathon Racer. Every part, every joint is made as good as it can be. Strong, clear selected oak forms the platform, reach and handle; mission finish, kiln dried rock maple wheels, with tubular steel bearings. Easier running and less liable to injury than ball bearing rubber tired vehicles. Malleable iron castings, black japanned, thoroughly tested, indestructible. Brake attachment. Here is an invention that appeals to every child and not only affords hours of enjoyment but is a great benefit to their health. It gives exercise to every part of the body. Just look at them at

The show at the Pavilion last night was very good. The big attraction was the picture entitled "The Shelling of the San Marcos." Until one has an opportunity of seeing the damage that these shells do it is impossible to imagine the destruction they are capable of doing, some of the parts of the steel frame work of the San Marcos were bent, twisted and punctured in a manner that is almost appalling, the steel having no more resisting power against the shells than a piece of putty would against a man's finger. The picture shows the doomed ship from a distance. The first volleys can be seen striking the water very close to the mark. It does not take long for the gunners to get the correct range, then when a shell hits the mark it can clearly be seen by a great cloud of black smoke that envelops the old vessel. After the firing has ceased we are taken aboard the battered old hull to view the damage, one great gaping hole shows where the shot struck that sunk her into her waiting bed of seven feet of water. Today is the last day that the picture is to be seen.

There is an Edison picture at Dreamland that everybody should see. The name of this great picture is "Between Two Fires." This picture is an episode supposed to have occurred during the Franco-Prussian war. The scenery is good and some of the pictures around the chateau have a quality which makes them interesting merely as pictures. To-day is the last chance you will have to see this great picture, so remember, Dreamland to-day.

BRAVE WORK BY CLERGYMAN

Rev. J. G. Currier of Milton Jumped Into River to Save Boys.

Milton, June 20.—A nearly fatal drowning accident occurred Saturday in the river back of the stores, when Cyrus and Loman Holcombe, who were in bathing and unable to swim, went beyond their depth. They were drowning when Rev. J. G. Currier, attracted to the spot, jumped in and tried to rescue the two boys. The weight of his clothing and the two boys was too much for him and he was nearly exhausted when Dwight Phelps pulled one of them off Mr. Currier and out of the water. Other boys succeeded in aiding Mr. Currier and the second Holcombe lad with a pole.

Joe Charette, an employee of the Deerfield Lumber Co. was drowned in Mountain Mills pond Wednesday morning. Charette was employed on the pond, and while no one saw him fall in, it is supposed he injured himself in some way that prevented his making any outcry, as a companion, who was in a shanty a few feet away, heard no sound. The finding of his pike-pole afloat in the pond led to a search which resulted in the finding of the body. Although employed about the water nearly all his life, Charette was unable to swim. He leaves a wife and five children, who will accompany the body to their former home in Canada, where the funeral will be held.

J. L. Blanchard of Shoreham lost a wallet containing over $20 Thursday, either on the train or the streets of Burlington. When on the train he felt the money in his hip pocket and as soon as he alighted he went to the store of J. O. Middlebrook & Sons and found that it was gone. There was a large crowd at the railway station and there is a possibility that the money was taken there. The bills were a ten, a five, two twos and several ones. There was also a check, indorsed by W. H. Baldwin.
